OUT OF THIS WORLD

SCI-FI, HORROR & FANTASY

Fight to the finish

As three sci-fi favourites reach their season finales, Thomas Simpson takes a look at what we can expect from this month's climactic episodes

Buffy the vampire slayer

The fifth year of Buffy has seen some of the most dramatically intense scenes in the series, and creator Joss Whedon has promised that this will continue right up to the closing scene of the final episode (Sky One, Friday 1st, 8.00pm). Given that the season has already seen the introduction of Buffy's kid sister, and the death of their mother, Whedon has, as ever, aimed high. Although strict security was thrown around the set during the filming of the finale, it will see the greatest battle that the Slayer has ever experienced, as Buffy and her friends fight the god Glory. Buffy is faced with a terrible choice: either she must let the world end, or lose the most important thing in her life. But at the very last second, she discovers that there is another option, and so is forced to make a heart-wrenching decision, which is set to give the audience one final shock for the year ...

Angel

Next year's episodes of Buffy the Vampire Slayer and Angel will have a new home in America, after the UPN network beat the WB to broadcast the shows by giving them an increased budget. In common with other series made for the WB, Angel will only have 21 episodes this season, and the final episode, There's No Place Like Pritz Glrb (Sky One, Friday 1st, 9.00pm), sees a number of plot threads resolved. Contrary to rumour, however, it seems the vampire and his friends are not crossing over to help Buffy in her concluding 100th episode. Angel, Wesley, Cordelia and Gunn have problems of their own to face, particularly when evil law firm Wolfram & Hart step up their operations against Angel. The Host of the karaoke bar, who has since become one of Angel's invaluable allies this year, also finds himself in danger when others of his species come to LA.

Dark Angel

James (Titanic) Cameron's much-hyped Dark Angel has had a critically bumpy ride during its first year on Sky One. In the opening episodes, we were introduced to actress Jessica Alba's genetically modified Max and her ongoing quest to discover others who were like her. In post-apocalypse America, life is what you make it – and for a select few, life depends on what you're made of. Max has learned about Manticore, the organisation responsible for her existence, and is now working with others who want to bring them down. In what may well be the final ever episode of the series (Sky One, Wednesday 6th, 9.00pm), the oddly titled ... And Jesus Brought a Casserole, the battle will be taken to Manticore's home territory, where Lydecker and Madame X are now at odds. Ratings for the show have slipped in America, and there is doubt about whether even James Cameron's involvement is enough to ensure that the show survives for a second year.

Polanski the vampire slayer

Director Roman Polanski takes a distinctly fang-in-cheek approach to 1967's The Fearless Vampire Killers. An affectionate homage to the popular Hammer productions of the day, the film follows two hapless vampire slayers, the elderly, eccentric Professor Abronsius (Jack MacGowran) and his cowardly assistant Alfred (played by Polanski himself). During their journey across snowy central Europe in search of the undead, the pair stop off at an inn owned by the lecherous Shagal (British sitcom favourite Alfie Bass). When Shagal's beautiful daughter (Polanski's future wife, the tragic Sharon Tate) is kidnapped by Count Von Krolock, our bumbling heroes set off for the elegant vampire's castle. The ravishing photography and richly detailed art direction conjure up a seductive fairy tale ambience and give the film a visual polish at odds with the low-brow humour. The comedy is of the Carry On school (grotesque peasants and buxom dolly birds abound) and may be too earthy for some tastes. But the bawdy tomfoolery is not at the expense of mood as Polanski creates a genuinely spooky atmosphere, brilliantly complemented by Christopher YOUNG's creepy choral score, and the film has its share of the sort of indelibly eerie moments that horror spoofs of lesser pedigree could not begin to achieve. One particularly memorable scene: the Count's haunting silent swoop on the bathing Sarah (Polanski has foamy water, rather than the expected, too-obvious blood, spatter the walls).

Goodness gracious – it's them

Since its arrival over three years ago, Goodness Gracious Me has been winning fans in their droves. Poking fun at Britain's multi-cultural society, its most popular characters include the Bhangramuffins, two hip-hop obsessed teens renowned for saying 'Kiss my chuddies' (Kiss my underpants), the Kapoors, thinly disguised as the ever-so-British Coopers, who are always claiming they're more English than their friends, and Smita Smitten, Showbiz Kitten. Named Best Comedy at the British Comedy Awards in 1998, its debut year, the show has since picked up a gong at the Royal Television Society Awards and been nominated for a BAFTA. The Asian sketch show was the brainchild of former Spitting Image script editor Anil Gupta, who put his idea to BBC bosses in 1995. Sensing they were unconvinced, he got the current foursome – Meera Syal, Sanjeev Bhaskar, Kulvinder Ghir and Nina Wadia – to perform at London's Riverside Studios in a one-off show. Known then as Peter Sellers Is Dead (to denote that the days of white actors blacking up to play Asians were over), it went down a storm – some feat considering the cast had only come together five days earlier – and went on to become a Radio 4 regular before christening our TV screens. This month the series goes to India in another one-off show Back Where They Came From, which focuses on the Coopers and their friends, the Robinsons. En route to a skiing holiday in Chamonix, the couples enter their ultimate nightmare – owing to a ticket mix-up, they end up in India. Decking their apartment in Union Jack flags and putting ketchup on their curries, the Brits desperately try to make the best of their predicament. Set the video!

Seventies seconds

The Sci-Fi channel should be applauded for its eclectic and refreshingly unpretentious approach to the genre from which it takes its name. Classic sci-fi, fantasy films and series, such as The Prisoner, Day of the Triffids and This Island Earth, jostle for air time with modern favourites Babylon 5 and Farscape, as well as cutting-edge anime. But shrewd marketing (fuelled by a great awareness of its product and how it is perceived by viewers) has also seen the channel repackage some of its, shall we say, less prestigious shows into a hip, must-watch series strand. With Pulp Sci-Fi, the channel has skilfully tapped into the growing nostalgia market aimed at sentimental and/or ironic thirtysomethings by playing up the kitsch factor of the likes of The Six Million Dollar Man, its gender-bending spin-off The Bionic Woman, and the DC Comics adaptations Wonder Woman and Swamp Thing. Seventies icon Lee Majors still makes a great half-mechanical action hero, but the unashamed awfulness of Wonder Woman makes it the pick of this wild bunch.

How Do These People Win FREE Cars, Holidays and Cash?

The prize car that nearly made the winner die of excitement!

When you come across a competition or prize-draw, do you think to yourself, “Oh, there’s no chance of me winning that?”

Well, that’s exactly what Colette Getling from Middlesex thought, until she started entering competitions and won a luxury Caribbean cruise and prizes worth £4,194!

And it was just the same for Linda Spevick from Harrow. To start with, Linda never really believed she could win anything. But she decided to enter some competitions anyway, and then – guess what...

“I entered a radio competition, and YES, I won top prize! A day at London Fashion Week Catwalk, dinner overnight at One Aldwych hotel, limousines, champagne flowing and £1,000 to spend at Harvey Nichols... What a fabulous two days we had!”

Winning a car – what a shock!

So the moral of these success stories is clear: don’t doubt yourself – start entering competitions, and you can win!

M.H. from Bury certainly agrees with this. She entered competitions, but thought she’d never win. And then, when she was officially told that she’d won a fantastic prize, she could hardly take in the news! “I won a Peugeot 206 car... When I found out I nearly had a heart attack with the shock!”

Which just goes to show that the people who expect it least are often the big winners.

Prizes worth millions!

Every month there are literally hundreds of new consumer competitions to enter – with prizes worth millions of pounds. Just look in the paper, listen to the radio, or go round your local supermarket, and you’ll come across them everywhere.

And the amazing truth is that the odds of winning one of these competitions are far, far better than winning the lottery. Comping expert, Lizzie Riley, says, “Millions of people buy lottery tickets every week, but the number of people entering competitions is tiny by comparison. With competitions you do have a real chance of winning.”

| NIGHT TIME | LPGA GOLF: MCDONALD'S LPGA CHAMPIONSHIPSKY SPORTS 3 8.00PM, SKY SPORTS 2 2.30AM The McDonald's LPGA Championship, which began in 1995, rates as one of the four major tournaments on the Tour. Last year, Juli Inkster clinched the title with a three-under-par 281. Inkster went to the second hole of a sudden death play-off before defeating Stefania Croce. This year, there will be others hungry for this prestigious title - which boasts a $1.5m purse with $225,000 going to the winner - including Korean talent Se Ri Pak (pictured), who has been enjoying a good season so far with Tour victories in January and April.  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | PLAYBOY TV/ADULT CHANNELADD-ON CHANNEL 10.00 Freeview 10.05 Juli 2: Fantasy 11.15 Submission11.40 Adult Feature12midnight Freeview 12.10amThe Exhibitionists 12.30 DoubleO Heaven 1.00 Freeview1.05 FILM: I'm Called Woman2.25 Student Bodies2.50 Lesbian Lust3.10-4.00am FILM: Girls on the Road Adult Nightview is now available as a TV on-demand service between 10.00pm and 4.00am at £4.95. ## The STAR TREK™ 22ct Gold Card Collection

A 22ct gold tribute to Earth's longest-running space adventure

Here's a golden collecting opportunity for Star Trek fans! Never before have the characters and vessels of this record-breaking galactic saga been preserved on gleaming gold collector cards. Captains Jean-Luc Picard, James T. Kirk, Kathryn Janeway, Benjamin Sisko, the Star Trek starships ... and many, many more are included in this all-encompassing collection.

Fabulous detail in gleaming 22ct gold

A skilled craftsman hand-inscribes every detail in deep relief on a steel die. This die is then used to strike thin sheets of paper-backed 22ct gold foil. The result is a dramatic three-dimensional image, similar to that of a coin or medal, in high relief on a mirror-smooth surface of gleaming 22ct gold. Each 22ct gold card is preserved in mint condition within a crystal clear case.
